NTP Client provides a universal solution to synchronize any computer with the universal time, in real time. In order to achieve this, NTP Client connects to the Universal time service (NTP) of a specific NTP server, which is provided by an official source. This program is extremely useful when you want to synchronize all of the computers on a network, and its reliability can be easily gauged by the fact that it uses the Internet to determine the NTP servers. NTP Client works in all Windows OS, and works in all versions of Windows starting with Windows 2000, Windows XP and Windows Vista. It supports both the 32-bit and the 64-bit architecture, and its performance is not hindered by the fact that you are using a 32-bit or 64-bit OS. This software package is specially designed to give you direct access to the Internet for your convenience. This software package is especially designed for devices that use a special function on their screens to enable them to connect to the Internet. Here you are advised to connect to a special Internet resource that is operated by the abovementioned device manufacturer. This can be done by creating a separate folder on your hard disk to store the required software files for the Internet function. To create a folder for this purpose, please follow the procedure below: On your hard disk, navigate to the location where you wish to create this folder. Right click on the folder and choose New, Folder. Give the new folder a name like "internet", and then click on "Ok". Download the NTP Client to any folder that you have created. Launch NTP Client. Click on the "Tools" menu to the right of the window. From the available list of tools, select the "internet" folder that you just created. Click on the "Yes" button. You can now download the files that are required for the Internet connection. Download the file (program.exe) that you require from the download list. When the download is complete, close NTP Client. Use the program (program.exe) that you downloaded to install the internet function that you require on the device that you are using. Here you are advised to follow the procedure below: Open the program file (program.exe). From the available list of tools, select the "internet" folder that you just created. Click on the "Yes" button. Start the device. Follow the instructions that appear on the screen to connect to the Internet. After the connection is established, you will be able to access the Internet. If the connection is not working, close the program and restart it. In addition to that, you can also see your software usage by choosing the "File Explorer" option on the menu bar, and then choosing "Tools".
