TIP: Check out Adobe's Complete Online Training, which includes Photoshop CS4 and the most current versions as well as other Adobe products. Photoshop is part of the Adobe Creative Suite — a bundle of programs that includes the software's namesake, Adobe Illustrator, and other programs like Dreamweaver. The following subsections describe how to work with the various tools and options in Photoshop CS4. Finding common tasks Photoshop has an extensive feature set. It's a matter of using the menu to discover the features available to you, and to determine which tools best fit each task. You can perform any task in Photoshop. However, the particular tool used depends on the task and the settings. In general, the following are common tools to consider:

Layer: Choose this tool to make changes to your images. Although the tool does more than just layers, layers are the primary tools used for creating and altering images.

Tools: Photoshop has a nearly unlimited number of drawing and editing tools, and you find the ones that best fit the task at hand.

Toolbox: The Toolbox, shown in the margin, is your tool collection. You use the Edit drop-down list to choose from a list of tools.

Layers Panel: This panel, shown in the margin, displays all the images you have layered on your workspace, making it easy to perform a specific task on all those images at once.

Managing files Your images remain where you left them. However, you save the information (data) in the files. (That information is explained in more detail in the next section, called Creating a File.) You may upload the images to a website (for example, ``www.courtneycoppock.com``), or you may share them by printing them.

Saving and creating a file Photoshop doesn't store the information in your files or on your computer's hard drive. To save the image, you need to take the information from the image and place it in a file. This file can be on your computer's hard drive or on a CD, DVD, or other disk, depending on the type of computer you use. (Flip to the earlier section, "Understanding Color Spaces," for more information on the different color models and how they work.) Think of your image as your data, and the file as the container in which you store and protect that data. After you create the

Q: How to find area under a continuous curve? I am trying to find the following area under a continuous function  $\int_0^1 (2x^2+x) dx$  I understand that I can do this by finding the differences of the original integral, but I'm not sure how to do that or how to find the new integral A:

$$I = \int_0^1 2x^2 dx = \frac{1}{3} \int_0^1 (3x^2) dx = \frac{1}{3} \cdot \frac{1}{3} = \frac{1}{9}$$

A: Separating the integral into two, one between 0 and  $x$  and the other  $x$  to 1,
$$I = \int_0^1 (2x^2+x) dx = \left[ \frac{2x^3}{3} + \frac{x^2}{2} \right]_0^1 - \frac{1}{2} \int_0^1 x dx = \left( \frac{2}{3} + \frac{1}{2} \right) - \frac{1}{2} \cdot 1 = \frac{1}{6}$$

C.F.R. § 1003.1(d)(3)(ii). Here, the BIA did not summarily dispose of Chen's appeal in violation of 8 C.F.R. § 1003.1(e)(4). Rather, it considered Chen's arguments, and it considered the IJ's decision in detail, providing reasons for its conclusion that the evidence did not establish the objective requirements for asylum or withholding of removal. 3 Chen also argues that the BIA violated his due process rights by notifying him of the IJ's denial of his untimely motion for a continuance, and that the BIA should not have relied on a denial of the continuance in making its decision. Because Chen raises these arguments for the first time on appeal, we do not have jurisdiction to consider them. See 8 U.

selected for correct exposure. When I set the shutter speed manually, it doesn't seem to have any effect on the exposure of the camera. I have tried both T6i and T6s, but it doesn't seem to have any effect. So, assuming a manual setting of 60 - 1/125 - f/1.8 - ISO 100 - evaluative, the same light and subject, the shutter speed is not even close to the values I would get with these lenses. So, I suspect, the metering system in the camera is using different values for its autoexposure. Is there any way I can adjust these "auto" values or remove some from this list in the settings? The reason why I ask is that, while some post-processing may still be required, I would really like to have the ability to predict the autoexposure.

A: Where are Canon Rebel DSLRs' internal filters stored? The internal filters (ND filters) are stored as part of the firmware of the camera. The ISO sensitivity range depends on the camera ISO speed, and the film ISO sensitivity range. The exposure "stops" differ for Canon EOS digital cameras because the internal ISO speed multiplier only takes
