Like most free programs, DoYourData File Eraser is absolutely free but the developers put effort into the crafting of an all-around great product. Security can never be taken for granted. Even if you delete the originals of the files you want to delete, there might still be traces left behind. Does this sound familiar? DoYourData File Eraser can help you get rid of those remnants. Not only can it wipe the originals from the memory of your computer, but you can also overwrite them with file-generating data like random numbers and letters. Aside from that, the program can achieve a 5-minute wipe for each file as well as activate a maxed-out overwrite for up to 60 files at a time. This makes it an automatic overwriter in a way. You can wipe the originals from your system, or, if you want, you can delete them and be done with it. You can run the program with or without an Internet connection. It doesn't matter if you're connected or disconnected at that moment; DoYourData File Eraser will still function just fine. The program's interface is straightforward, clean, and just as well-designed as the rest of the program. There are no menus that plague you, no hidden options and no other complicated features that will put you to sleep. The interface is very
