You can edit this file directly in Notepad or a similar text editor, but you should be careful not to change any of the text displayed in the user list. Editing this file will effectively update the configuration settings of TS2, so that it is working correctly with this version. If you make a mistake, then it will be impossible to restore the original configuration, so choose your text editor wisely. Important: TS2 will not work without a valid ini-file. If you have changed the look and/or text of this file, then you'll need to reload (start) TS2 to force this new ini-file to be used. If you wish to only modify the new server (IP) address, without changing any of the remaining configuration options (color, name, etc.), then you can use any text editor. Simply copy the IP address and paste it in the location specified in the TS2.ini file. To change the server (IP) address (and not the name, color, etc.) you may use any text editor such as Notepad.
