I have 2 separate ViewControllers, both have their own.xib files. I have the ViewController1 and the ViewController2 up and running on my phone. I want to close ViewController1 and open ViewController2, but when I open ViewController2 it opens on the same point of ViewController1. How can I fix this? EDIT: I want my app to close ViewController1, and load ViewController2. But it does not, but goes directly to ViewController2 A: You must have the same view outlet in both view controllers. if its not the case, change it. Evaluation of the efficacy of topical treatment with minocycline for complex oral candidiasis. Oral candidiasis is the most common fungal infection affecting children and adults. The majority of episodes resolve spontaneously, but recalcitrant cases may necessitate systemic antifungal therapy and/or oral and/or topical treatment. This study evaluated the efficacy of topical minocycline for the treatment of simple and complex oral candidiasis in children. Children with a clinical diagnosis of oral candidiasis (based on the presence of erythematous, white, or yellow plaques involving the tongue or buccal mucosa) and who were receiving topical minocycline were enrolled. The clinical diagnosis of simple and complex oral candidiasis was made according to established criteria. A total of 150 children with simple and complex oral candidiasis were enrolled in the study. Patients were randomized to receive twice daily therapy with 3% minocycline or 0.2% clotrimazole. Overall, 75.3% of children treated with topical minocycline had clinical responses and were cured of
